

Prompt Certification and Service

PG LifeLink responds to customer need. In today's demanding economy, time and money are precious to everyone. With the latest innovation in isolated power panels, line isolation monitors and software, PG LifeLink continues to reduce installation and maintenance costs for their customers.

To further influence the reduction in installation time, testing, certification and service of their systems, PG LifeLink offers a full line of service packages. After installation, the isolated power panels will need a prompt certification before being placed into service. With the service packages, certification and all required documentation will be completed by PG LifeLink in a timely manner.

Isolated power panels must be tested every year. Making it easy for the end-user, PG LifeLink offers a yearly testing service.
